WEDNESDAY, December 2, 1747.

N°. 136.

From the NEW-YORK Post-Boy.

By his Excellency the Honourable GEORGE CLINTON, Captain-General and Governor in chief of the Province of New-York, &c.

To Mr. James Parker, Printer to the General Assembly of the Province of New-York.

WHEREAS some persons calling themselves a Committee of the General Assembly of this province, came into an apartment of my house on the 9th instant, while I was engaged in my private affairs, and without the least previous notice, one of them offered to read a large bundle of paper, which he said was a remonstrance from that house, and desired my leave to read the same; which I absolutely refused, or to have it left with me: And whereas the Speaker of the said General Assembly hath, in disregard to my authority and person, ordered the same to be printed by you in their Votes; altho' I had forewarned you by my secretary not to do it: But as you afterwards signified to him, that a verbal order was not sufficient to forbid you printing any thing to that purpose; I DO hereby, in his majesty's name, expressly forbid you, or any other person in this province, to re-print or otherwise publish the said paper called, A Remonstrance of the General Assembly of this province, as you and they shall answer the same at your peril; the said paper containing many false, scandalous, and malicious aspersions on me, as governor of this province. And I do hereby further require you, to give public notice of this my order, by publishing the same in your next News-Paper, and for your so doing, this shall be your warrant. Given under my hand at the city of New-York, 24th October, 1747.

G. CLINTON.

Extract from the Votes of the General Assembly of New-York,

Die Lunæ, 26th of October, 1747.

Mr. Clarkson took notice of an order from his excellency to Mr. Parker, the Printer, published in his Gazette of this day; which order, together with a paragraph in his excellency's message of the 13th instant to the house, reflect upon the conduct of a committee of this house, appointed to wait on his excellency with the humble remonstrance of the house; and acquainted the house, that the members that were of that committee, had hitherto declined taking notice of that part of his excellency's message, lest it might occasion interruptions to the business of the house, which they judged to be of much greater consequence to be dispatched; but that the said members now find themselves under a necessity of vindicating their conduct at this time.

Mr. Clarkson, then mov'd, that that part of his excellency's message of the 13th instant, that charges the committee, appointed to wait on his excellency with the remonstrance of the house of the 9th instant, with most indiscreet behaviour; might be read: Which was read, and is in the words following; viz.

This leads me to consider a most indiscreet behaviour of some of the members of your house, who, in a quarter of an hour after I was served with the copy of your said Resolves of the 9th instant, came into an apartment of my house, where I was then busy, and, without the least previous notice, one of them offered to read a large bundle of papers, which he said was a remonstrance from your house. Does every private man in this country think his own house his castle; and must your governor, when in his private apartment, be thus intruded upon? Would any private man bear such behaviour in a stranger, and must your governor bear it with patience?

Mr. Clarkson then proceeded to acquaint the house, that Col. Philipse, Mr. Thomas, Mr. Kruger, Col. Bekman, Col. Chambers, Col. Lott, and himself, who were the said committee and waited on his excellency, were under the greatest concern and surprize to be thus charged; and for their justification, are under a necessity of declaring the case as, in truth, it was, That upon the said committee's coming to his excellency's house, and knocking at the street-door, which stood open, the servant who usually attends his excellency came to them; they acquainted him, that they had a message from the house to his excellency: The servant thereupon went into the apartment upon the left hand, and the committee attended at the street-door 'til he returned, who then desired them to walk in; and they saw a gentleman withdraw from that room before they entered. Upon their entering, they found his excellency alone, who received them, as they thought, without any token of displeasure: That his excellency was then acquainted by him, that the committee were ordered by the house to wait on his excellency with their humble remonstrance; and that upon his offering to read it, he was not permitted, nor would his excellency suffer it to be left with him; hereupon the committee all decently withdrew: That the said members are not conscious to themselves of having in any manner misbehaved in the whole course of this proceeding; nor was any indiscreet behaviour in them, assigned as a reason why the remonstrance was refused; for his excellency seemed only to intimate, that being without the speaker, such proceeding was not parliamentary. And thereupon the said members, viz. Col. Philipse, Mr. Thomas, Mr. Kruger, Col. Bekman, Col. Chambers, and Col. Lott, all declared, that it was a just and true relation of that transaction; and that they are ready at any time to make oath thereof, if it should be thought requisite.

Ordered,

That the aforesaid vindication of the members, who were ordered to wait on his excellency with the humble Remonstrance of the house, be referred to the consideration of the committee to whom his excellency's message of the 13th instant is committed.

Mr. Speaker represented to the house, that an order to Mr. James Parker, Printer to the General Assembly, signed with his excellency's name, and published in said Printer's Gazette of this day, forbidding the said Printer and all other persons in this colony, to reprint, or otherwise publish the remonstrance of this house; he finds himself charged with having ordered the said remonstrance to be printed in the Votes of the house, in disregard (as it is termed in the said order) to his excellency's authority and person; and therefore desir'd, that, as what he had done in that respect was in consequence of an order of the house, that the house would vindicate his conduct therein.

Ordered,

That James Parker, Printer to the General Assembly, attend this house tomorrow morning at ten o' clock.

Die Martis, 27th of October, 1747.

Mr. James Parker, Printer to the General Assembly, in obedience to an order of this house of yesterday, attending at the door, was called in; and being examined in relation to the order published in his Gazette of yesterday, forbidding him, and all other persons within this colony, to reprint or otherwise publish the humble remonstrance of this house of the 9th instant; he produced the original order [wherein the above is a Copy] under his excellency's own hand.

The Printer being then directed to withdraw, the house proceeded to the consideration of the subject matter of the said order, and came to the following resolutions thereon.

Resolved, Nemine contradicente,

That it is the undoubted right of the people of this colony to know the proceedings of their representatives in General Assembly; and that any attempt to obstruct or prevent their proceedings being printed and published, is a violation of the rights and liberties of the people of this colony.

Resolved,

Reſolved, Nemine contradicente,

That any attempt to prohibit the printing or reprinting any of the proceedings of this houſe, is an infringement of the privileges of this houſe, and of the people they repreſent.

Reſolved, Nemine contradicente,

That the humble remonſtrance of this houſe of the 9th inſtant, tho' his excellency (contrary to the uninterrupted uſage in ſuch caſes) refuſed to receive it, was notwithſtanding a regular proceeding of this houſe.

Reſolved, Nemine contradicente,

That his excellency's order to forbid the printing or reprinting the ſaid remonſtrance, is unwarrantable, arbitrary, and illegal; and not only an open and manifeſt violation of the privileges of this houſe, but alſo of the LIBERTY OF THE PRESS, and evidently tends to the utter ſubverſion of all the rights and liberties of this houſe, and of the people they repreſent.

Reſolved, Nemine contradicente,

That Mr. Speaker's ordering the ſaid remonſtrance to be printed with the Votes and Proceedings of this houſe, is regular, and intirely conſiſtent with the duty of his office, as Speaker of this houſe.

Die Jovis, 12th of November, 1747.

A motion was made by Col. Morris, in the words following; viz.

'The late order in Parker's paper, ordering him, as the 'Printer of this houſe, not to publiſh or print the Proceedings 'of this houſe, is an attempt to deprive the people of this colo- 'ny of their liberties: I therefore move, that we order him to 'reprint our humble remonſtrance to his excellency, and that 'he deliver ten copies to each member of this houſe; that our 'conſtituents may know, that it is our firm reſolution to pre- 'ſerve the Liberty of the Preſs, and to communicate our Pro- 'ceedings to them, that they may judge of our conduct.'

Ordered,

That Mr. James Parker, Printer to this houſe, do forthwith reprint the humble remonſtrance of this houſe to his excellency, of the 9th of October laſt; and that he deliver ten copies thereof to each of the members of this houſe.

MADRID, Auguſt 21.

COUNT Frenclar, who landed in this kingdom ſome weeks ago from Mexico, where he was lately vice-roy, arrived here the 15th inſtant. On the 16th he waited on the king, and gave him an account of the ſtate of affairs in that country. The court has a third time ordered all its miniſters in foreign courts to diſown the reports of a ſeparate peace between his majeſty, and two other powers. The king is firmly reſolved to remain as faithful to his engagements, as the other powers who ſollicit him to peace, are to the engagements they have enter'd on the other ſide.

We are aſſured, that M. de Caravajal will be in a ſhort time declared prime-miniſter, and have under his direction the ſecretaries of ſtate of the ſeveral departments: But, 'tis doubted whether the marquiſſes de Villarias and Eſcenada will ſubmit to this. On the 18th at night, there was ſuch a violent tempeſt at St. Ildefonſo, that the lightning, piercing into the ſtable belonging to the bed guard of the queen dowager, kill'd 24 horſes, ſtanding at their mangers, while many others, that were in the ſame rank, received no harm.

There has been no courier this week from the infant; But that from Naples reports, that the troops of the combined army are in motion to enter the ſtate of Genoa. However, as they have Savona to take, and general Leutrum to beat, before they can reach the capital, our politicians think the campaign will end with the ſiege of Savona only.

Extract of a Letter from Geneva, Auguſt 12.

"Marſhal Belleiſle's return into the county of Nice, engroſſes all our attention here; and moſt people impute this ſudden alterations of meaſures, to the apprehenſion of ſome new attempt on the ſouthern frontiers of France, to which the country on the other ſide the Var, may not improperly be called a barrier of the greateſt conſequence. From this it is eaſy to conclude, that the marſhal's deſign may very probably be to keep the allies at elbow's length from his maſter's dominions, and not to act offenſively againſt his Sardinian majeſty's territories, which the example of his brother, and fatal experience have ſhewn not to be ſo eaſily penetrable.----But to return to matter of fact, 'tis more than certain, that all the Spaniſh troops in general, are heartily weary of their Fellow Labourers, and the Officers of the two nations ſeldom meet over a glaſs of wine, but the entertainment ends with a quarrel to be decided with ſword and piſtol the next morning. The infant and the marſhal are not upon better terms, and ſeem equally diſguſted with each other, though from their circumſtances obliged to act together: All this looks favourably for our antient neighbour, whom every one of us hopes to be ſoon reſtored to his paternal Dutchy.

Hague, September 12. The Prince Stadtholder acts, as uſual, at the deliberations of the government, and his highneſs has made ſeveral military promotions. The ſtates of Gueldrland in Nimiguen quarters have loaded ſeven ſhips with all ſorts of proviſions and refreſhments, for the garriſon of Bergen-op-zoom; and the inhabitants of Amſterdam continue to diſtinguiſh themſelves in that reſpect, having juſt obtained a paſſport for a ſhip load of proviſions, chiefly for the hoſpital.

There is not a man in Bergen-op-zoom, but is become active in the defence of the place; which gives hopes that the French will ſtill be defeated. It is plain, they fear an attack behind, and our army at Oudenboſch has already advanced to poſts beyond Notpen. The light troops perform their duty well, and very much interrupt the convoys for the beſieging army. Baron Schwartzenburg will very ſoon be reinforced, perhaps within a day or two, the Hanoverians having paſſed the Rhine about Rhees and Caleat a week ago; the troops of Naſſau being alſo near at hand, and a body of 900 Carliadians having croſſed the Maeſe at Ruremonde yeſternay ſe'nnight.

Extract of a Letter from Rotterdam, dated Sept. 5.

"Bergen op zoom is at preſent juſt an oppoſite to all other beſieged towns, as they generally want neceſſaries, and the beſieging army has plenty; 'tis here quite the contrary, the beſiegers want every thing, and the beſieged have at preſent the greateſt plenty of any town on earth: From every city of the province have been ſent quantities of all ſorts of proviſions, and are ſtill ſending, inſomuch that many ſhips that carry them are obliged to ſtay 10 or 12 days before it comes to their turn to be unladen: This is all done by voluntary ſubſcriptions; and when the ſiege is raiſed, there will be large ſums of money diſtributed to each corps, according to their behaviour, for encouragement. I long to have the pleaſure of wiſhing you joy of the ſiege being raiſed. We are daily forming parties to pay a viſit to the town, as ſoon as we get a confirmation thereof: Hundreds have gone from hence thither ſince the ſiege began; but the bombs and balls fly ſo thick, they are obliged to do as we do here, take things by hear ſay, without being eye-witneſſes of what is doing; ſo that I defer my journey 'til the ſiege is raiſed, which I hope will be very ſoon.

LONDON, Auguſt 30.

We hear that the Rev. Mr. Hardy, of Hadleigh, in Suffolk, has invented a Cadadioptrical Teleſcope of only ſix inches length, that will magnify objects more than ſixty times in diameter. As the Teleſcope is more than ſufficient to render the eclipſes, occulations, &c. of Jupiter's ſatellites viſible; and as ſo ſhort a teleſcope muſt be eaſily managed on ſhip-board, the invention will be a ſolution of that grand problem, to determine the longitude of a ſhip at ſea, which has ſo long puzzled our mathematicians, and for the ſolution of which, the parliament of Great-Britain have offered a noble reward.

Sept. 3. They write from the Hague, that Mr. Chiquet, who is charged with the French affairs there, has made very loud complaints at the liberties taken with his maſter and miniſters, in news papers, and pamphlets, lately printed in the dominions of the States General; and is even gone ſo far, as to threaten, that if a ſtop is not put to ſuch practices, his moſt chriſtian majeſty will revoke all the promiſes made to their High Mightineſſes, in the memorial by him delivered on the 13th of April laſt.

As the Breſt ſquadron will this time be watch'd with a HAWK'S eye, a better account is expected of it, than has been given of ſome former armaments of the enemy.

Sept. 8. Laſt night an expreſs arrived from Flushing, ſince which 'tis reported that the French have taken Bergen-op-Zoom by ſtorm, and put all the garriſon to the ſword; but we may at preſent hope it may amount to no more than this; that the French have ſtormed and taken one or more of the principal Baſtions or Ravelins.

A greater number of wagers are thought to be depending on the fate of Bergen-op zoom, than have been on any public event ſince the beginning of the war. But 'tis conjectured, that ſome blaſterers, who talk much of the great importance of preſerving this place, would in their hearts be glad to ſee it fall, that they might have a pretence for putting an end to a War, which they have ſhewn themſelves unable to conduct.

BOSTON, November 16.

We are informed by capt. Woodside, that on the 5th instant, towards evening, a lad about 16 years old, going out of Brunswick fort at the eastward, saw 11 men dress'd with coats and hats coming towards him, which he took for Englishmen; 'til they came up to him, when he found them to be Indians, one of which seized him as his prisoner; which the lad's father observing from the fort, discharged his gun (loaded with swan shot) at the Indian, and wounded him; upon which he immediately quitted the lad, who ran towards the fort, but was unfortunately shot down by the other Indians. The people of the garrison got the lad into the fort alive, but he died of his wounds soon after: He said the Indian that took him, was mortally wounded by his father's shot, one of which struck him (the boy) in the ball of his hand.

NEW-YORK, November 23.

By letters from Barbados, dated the 10th of October, we have advice, that the privateer ship Antilope, of this place, Capt. Amory, had put in there to refit, having met with a violent gale of wind off of Bermuda, which obliged him to throw overboard 5 of his guns, to cut away his mizen mast and top-masts, and lost his topsail-yards, top-sails, top gallant-sails, and stay-sails; but that they were almost refitted and ready to sail again; and they having intelligence that a fleet from Martineco were soon to sail for Old France, were in great hopes to have the satisfaction of speaking with some of them. That capt. Tyrrell, in one of his Majesty's ships, had carried in there two French privateers, which privateers had before taken a snow from Philadelphia, bound to that island: That the Porcupine snow of war had had an engagement with three of the enemy's privateers, in which she lost some of her hands: And that by the packet arrived there from England, there was an account of a large fleet of merchantmen to sail from Dieppe for the West-Indies, under convoy of three men of war.

Extract of a Letter from Albany, Nov. 14.

"Last Saturday night the French Indian, that gave himself up to the people of capt. Van Reifler's house some time ago, escaped over the walls of our fort, and is not yet heard of. Yesterday some people came from Oswego; they say they met five Indians at Oneico lake, who came from Canada; and that one of them was with them that were taken last spring, with Van Shaick and Abeel; they say those two persons, and the other Indians, were got to Goal when they left Canada."

PHILADELPHIA, November 16.

Last week came to town, one of our pilots who was carried off to Cape Francois, by the French that were at our capes some time ago, who informs us, that the ship Delaware, which the French took at our capes, was lost in a violent gale of wind, in which gale, a French privateer Brigt. foundered, and all the crew perished, and several others received much damage.

Nov. 26. Tuesday last arriv'd capt. Grant, from Jamaica, who was attacked in the passage by a Row-Galley, which had a prize in company; but he defended himself so well, and plied her so briskly, for about three hours and a half, that she thought proper to leave him. Captain Grant informs us, that the Merlin snow of war, capt. Brodie, with whom he came out, took a French privateer of 8 guns; that a privateer snow of Bermuda, commanded by capt. Griffiths, had carried into Jamaica a ship and sloop, bound from Laguira to La Vera Cruz, laden with cocoa, and other things of value, supposed to be very rich; and that the brigt. William, of New-York, was taken in the passage by a Spanish privateer schooner.

Last Saturday evening a great number of the inhabitants of this city met at Mr. Walton's school-house, in Arch street, when a form of an association for our common security, and defence against the enemy, was consider'd and agreed on. On Monday following, the same was laid before a great meeting of the principal gentlemen, merchants, and others, at Roberts' coffee-house, where, after due deliberation, it was unanimously approv'd of, and another meeting appointed to be the next day following at the new-building, in order to begin signing. Accordingly, on Tuesday evening, upwards of Five Hundred Men, of all ranks, subscribed their names; and as the subscription is still going on briskly in all parts of the town, 'tis not doubted but that in a few days the number will exceed a thousand, in this city only, exclusive of the neighbouring towns and country. 'Tis hop'd the same laudable spirit will spread itself throughout the province; it being certain that we have numbers more than sufficient to defeat (with the blessing of God) any enterprize our enemies can be suppos'd to form against us: All we wanted was union and discipline.

ANNAPOLIS.
